BARNES TURNED DOWN MURPHY ON PRIMARY BILL

Politics Grow Hot in the Roosevelt-Barnes Trial at Albany To-day

COULDN'T AGREE WITH HUGHES

Plaintiff Disgusted with Former Governor's Scruples on the Race-track Bill

"TEDDY" GETS MORE LETTERS

Big Batch of Senator Platt's Correspondence Submitted by the Defense This Morning

BY BOND P. GEDDES (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 3.—That Boss Murphy asked William Barnes to help defeat the Blauvelt direct primary bill enacted during Governor Dix's administration and Barnes said he would "let the democrats pull their own chestnuts out of the fire" was the testimony produced today by the defense in the Barnes-Roosevelt libel trial.

The testimony—that of Walter T. Arndt, a former newspaper correspondent—was one of the three big surprises sprung by the Roosevelt side today.

Major J. J. Dickinson, Washington, another correspondent, told how Barnes was disgusted with Governor Hughes for favoring the anti-race track bill and that Barnes said he and Hughes could not agree, because Hughes cared more for his conscience than votes.

The third coup of the defense was production of a big batch of correspondence between Senator Platt, the "easy boss," and Barnes. None of the letters were read before the morning recess, but they were said to promise revelations of secret history of political relations between Barnes and Platt.

The three surprises followed two dreary hours of floundering through technical, intricate mazes of printing contracts at Albany. The court room was electrified when Senator Platt's son, Edward, produced the new batch of Barnes-Platt letters. Justice Andrews ordered those pertinent be sorted out.

AGATHA FISCHER DIES SUDDENLY

The sudden death of Mrs. Agatha Fischer, 52, at her home, 2236 Morrison Coulee road, at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, led the police and coroner William L. Tetley to an investigation. Michael Fischer, husband of the woman, was arrested because they could obtain no statement from him in English. He was released.

Dr. John A. Rowles pronounced death to have occurred from high nervous tension. No inquest was held.

Mrs. Fischer was formerly Mrs. Agatha Knobloch. She was the daughter of Frank Kniffel, Rostwick valley. She is survived by her second husband, one daughter, Mrs. Joseph J. Osweller, La Crosse; one son, Wenzel Knobloch, and her father. Four sisters and five brothers also survive.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning from the home of Mrs. Joseph J. Osweller, 108 North Tenth street. Rev. G. Shuster will officiate. Interment will be made at the Catholic cemetery.

RAIL MEN FACE GRILLING HERE IN RATE CASES

La Crosse Shippers Complain of Discrimination and Assert Excessive Tariffs Maintain

MINNESOTA CASES BROUGHT IN

Cashman Tariff Measure of Gopher State Is Partly Blamed for High Rates

Maintaining that freight charges on five important commodities between La Crosse and the Twin cities are exorbitant and discriminatory, Attorneys J. L. George, Charles K. Warren and George M. Stephens, Chicago, representing the La Crosse Shippers' association and the La Crosse Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club, today grilled representatives of four railroads carrying freight between the two points, at the interstate commerce hearing being held at the federal building. Attorney Examiner George T. Bell is taking evidence for the commission.

Cashman Law Blamed

C. J. Leahy, freight traffic manager of the Milwaukee railroad, was the chief witness this morning. Warm argument was brought out between Leahy and Attorney Stephens regarding charges on several similar length "hauls" in different parts of the northwest. Leahy asserted that the cashman law, enacted in Minnesota two years ago, was the cause of high rates in the part of Minnesota adjoining La Crosse territory. Minnesota rates were brought into the argument when rates from Winona, Minn., and La Crosse to the Twin cities were discussed.

Ten Per Cent Cut Asked

Attorney Stephens contradicted statements of Leahy that La Crosse was paying an average rate, as compared to other hauls in the northwest.

The railroads against whom the hearing is being directed by the local organizations are the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Chicago and Great Western railroad, and the Chicago and Northwestern.

A ten per cent cut in freight rates is being asked for.

KILLED IN JITNEY SMASH

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 3.—Robert Strauss, 22, was killed and twelve other passengers received minor injuries Sunday in the first serious jitney accident here. The machine overturned while speeding on a bad road in the outskirts. A girl and a man were run down by automobiles and seriously hurt.

JAIL LA CROSSE GIRL WHO TRIED TO KILL HUSBY

Ruth Nimocks-Barnes-Robare Laughs at Injured Spouse's Offers of Reconciliation

ABERDEEN, S. D., May 3.—(Special.)—Steadfastly refusing to effect a reconciliation with her husband, Mrs. Ruth Robare, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Nimocks, 1805 South Eighth street, La Crosse, Wis., sits in a cell in the Brown county jail, caring for her nine months old child and facing a term in the state's prison for attempting to kill Percy Robare to whom she was married a year and a half ago at Winona, Minn.

At the preliminary examination Mrs. Robare was bound over to the next term of circuit court under $1,000 bonds charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. Robare is now thought to be out of all danger. It is not thought that the bullet entered his forehead but is merely lodged in the cavity below the cheek bone on the left side.

Husband Would Free Her

He has been to the jail to see his wife on two occasions within the last few days in an attempt to form a reconciliation with her. He has even offered to disappear, exposing himself to contempt of court by not appearing as a witness after being subpoenaed, in order that there might not be sufficient evidence upon which to convict the girl wife of the felony with which she is charged.

At each overture made by him, she has laughed in his face, telling him to "stick to it" and "send me over the stock if you want to. See if I care." She has been informed by her attorneys, it is understood, that no jury will convict her.

Mrs. Robare shot her husband early last Monday morning after a quarrel at a moving picture show Sunday night, as to who should take care of the child. This quarrel had been brewing for several months, and on the Saturday previous, the woman had pawned her wedding ring in order to secure funds with which to purchase the revolver with which she did the shooting.

HONOR ROLL OUT AT HIGH SCHOOL IS BIGGEST EVER

Reading Room List Includes 126 Pupils Who Excel in Scholarship with 85 Per Cent

CHARLES WEIS HEADS CLASSES

Eight Pupils Get General Averages of 95 Per Cent Proficiency or Better

Final reports for the last quarter show that there are one hundred and twenty-six students who qualify for the high school reading room list. These students have attained marks above eighty-five per cent in at least four subjects. Of the number twenty-nine are advanced freshmen.

Eight students have received above ninety-five per cent in four subjects thereby placing their names on the "honor roll." This is a record of which to be proud as a great deal of effort is necessary to attain a mark above ninety in any subject.

Charles Weis has the highest average for the quarter in any in school. His final mark in four averaged 97.5 per cent. Few students have ever equalled that mark in the local high school and Charles deserves credit for his achievement. The honor roll and reading list and the average by classes follows:

EUROPEAN WAR AN ENDURANCE CONTEST WITH PEACE REMOTE

Roy M. Howard After Trip to Front Says Hostilities Will Not Cease in 1915

U. S. THE GREAT PACIFICATOR

Opportunity Greatest in the World's History Unless Killed by "Ill-advised Peace Talk"

EUROPE HAS READJUSTED LIFE

Indefinite Struggle Is Basis—Not Peace; Regard Our Peace Moves as Impertinent

NEW YORK, May 3.—"All Europe recognizes that the great war has developed something new in history—the siege of a nation—and has resolved itself into an endurance contest of indeterminate length. An end of the war in 1915 is generally regarded as too remote for serious consideration. America will eventually have the greatest opportunity in the world's history to act the peace-maker—unless that opportunity is killed by ill-advised and premature talk of peace at this time."

The above is the belief of Roy W. Howard, president of the United Press, who returned to New York today after a three months' tour of the United Press bureaus and field stations in England, Germany, Russia, France, Belgium and Italy. During the tour, Howard visited the front and the foremost trenches of both the German and the allied armies and was given exceptional opportunities for first hand observation of conditions existing at the opening of this spring campaign.

Readjust Life

"Belligerent and neutral in Europe have adjusted their life—national, commercial and social—on the basis of an indefinite war," he said. "They have eliminated every consideration contingent upon early peace. With this point of view Europe—especially France and England—is dumfounded at America's insistent peace talk and her reluctance to accept the situation as it exists and readjust business accordingly. Europe has accepted the worst as a probability—a war of from two to five years—and at the same time is prepared to be happily surprised should the trouble terminate earlier."

Pooh-Pooh Peace Plans

"The impression is general in both England and France that a considerable force is meddling in this country in the direction of early peace. Such a movement is regarded as an impertinence. In purely military circles, it is construed as pro-German. To say that it is resented is putting it mildly. Peace in the near future, on any basis likely to be acceptable to Germany, is unthinkable in France or England. Neither country feels that it has yet suggested what it can do in a military way under test."

French Army Strong

"Both admit Germany secured the jump at the outset of the war and still holds the advantage. France's army today is undoubtedly one of the greatest fighting machines in the field and is in splendid contrast to the force mobilized by the French last August. France insists on eliminating memory of her unsatisfactory showing at the outbreak of hostilities."

Test "Citizen Army"

"England feels that the ability of a democracy to exist and rise to an emergency without compulsory military service and without maintaining a tremendous professional army, is on trial. She has spent nine months in perfecting a citizen army that she believes will prove greater than any professional army, but she knows this army must prove her claims for it. Even advantageous terms now would not tempt her to a peace with the strength of this citizen army unproved."

Germany Not Tiring

"Statements that Germany is tiring of the war, or that there is a peace faction growing in the fatherland, can be put down as idle gossip. In no country in Europe is the war spirit more nearly universal or the sacrifice demanded being made so uncompromisingly. The German people are for the war to the last man, woman and child. Nothing but national exhaustion or a government policy of a peace at any reasonable price now, for the sake of a fresh start and a war against England alone, will satisfy this feeling."

Can't Crush Germany

"Personally after three months' observation of the situation at close hand I do not believe that even a victory for the allies would be at the price of Germany being crushed. There is every reason to believe that a partial victory is secured the impossibility of a successful general assault will have been learned at a staggering price and the end—whatever it may be—will come only after a process of attrition has worn one side to a state of exhaustion."

NAVAL FIGHTS EXPECTED SOON BRITISH ACTIVE

Sinking of Destroyer and Torpedo Boats Said to Start Water Campaign

RUSSIA ADMITS SERIOUSNESS

Danger to Baltic Provinces Implied in the Official Petrograd Statement

LONDON, May 3.—The sinking of the British destroyer Recruit in the North sea off Holland and the destruction of two German torpedo boats is said to be the forerunner of an active water campaign.

Because of rough weather the Germans were compelled to keep all of their small craft in harbor bases during the winter. Except for the class of destroyers built especially for North sea cruising England's fleet has not been active. With weather ideal for cruising clashes between the smaller craft of both navies is expected at any time.

The German fleet has again been reported as having been sighted on Heligoland and a flotilla of thirty knot light German cruisers have been reported in the North sea where French and British light cruisers of the Arethusa type are said to be "nosing about."

Case is Serious

PETROGRAD, May 3.—For the first time the Russian war office today admitted that the German expedition towards the Russian provinces is serious. It was stated that the Germans are co-operating by sea. Detachments of cavalry and automobile detachments are overrunning the Sahvli region. Patrols of the enemy have been reported near Libau and a squadron of German torpedo boats is operating along the Russian Baltic coast and have penetrated the gulf of Riga.

Admit Heavy Losses

LONDON, May 3.—That the allied troops are losing even more heavily than had been expected in the operations to aid the fleet in reducing the defenses of the Dardanelles was admitted here today by the war office. Emphatic denials were made of the German-Turkish claim that the expedition was facing annihilation. The warships are continuing the shelling of the forts.

Turks Claim Victory

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 3.—The Turkish war office in today's review of the conditions at the front, reports the further repulse of the allies. It is declared that the British Continentals were driven by repeated bayonet charges on the part of the Turkish forces to the cover of their warships at Gaba Tepe.

German Victory Claimed

BERLIN, May 3.—A sweeping victory over the Russians in western Galicia was reported today by the German war office. The official statement said the Russian defeat in the Bukovina and the junction of the Vistula and Donajec rivers to a point close to the Hungarian frontier. The Germans captured many guns and munitions of war together with 1,700 men.

MRS. LOUISE SOELL CALLED SUDDENLY

Mrs. Louise B. Soell, well known hair dresser of La Crosse, died suddenly at 11 o'clock this morning at the St. Francis hospital, after being confined there for two weeks.

Mrs. Soell was born in La Crosse October 10, 1855. She had been established in business at 523 Main street for several years.

She is survived by one son, Otto; one sister, Miss Eleanor Simon, and one brother, M. Simon, all of La Crosse.

WANTS TIME SET FOR HANGING

ATLANTA, Ga., May 3.—Solicitor H. M. Dorsey, Leo M. Frank's prosecutor in the Mary Phagan case, today petitioned Judge Ben Hill to fix a date for Frank's execution under the original death sentence, passed August 26, 1913. Judge Hill said he would not pass on the matter before Thursday.

JOSEPH BOSCHERT APPOINTED TODAY TO POLICE BOARD

Former Mayor and Prominent Banker Succeeds Wm. Doerflinger on Important Commission

IS FAMILIAR WITH DUTIES

City Engineer's Appointment to Be Withheld Until Bradish's Term Has Expired

Joseph Boschert, former mayor of La Crosse, assistant cashier of the La Crosse National bank, and for many years closely related with the financial and business affairs of the city, was today appointed to membership in the fire and police commission as a successor to William Doerflinger, who, after serving a five year term, declined to be considered as a candidate for reappointment. Mr. Boschert informed Mayor A. A. Bentley of his acceptance of the appointment this morning.

Joseph Boschert was born in La Crosse county and has resided here all of his life. He is 58 years old and came to La Crosse in 1844, since which time he has held various public offices. In 1885 he was appointed deputy collector of customs here, his district taking in nine counties. He became registrar of deeds in 1890 and served for a long period.

In 1901 Mr. Boschert was elected mayor of La Crosse on the democratic ticket, serving for two years. He is familiar with the police system and work of the commission.

Bernhard is Reappointed

Prof. A. H. Bernhard, member of the board of health, whose term of office also expires May 1, was reappointed today by Mayor Bentley. Two weed inspectors, Alfred Farley and Ernest Wermuth were named also, all of the appointments being subject to the confirmation of the city council which will have a special meeting tomorrow night to straighten out the paving tangle on Rose street, where through an error in estimates the contractors took an agreement to lay about a thousand square yards of brick without compensation.

No appointment of a successor to George P. Bradish for city engineer has as yet been made. Mr. Bradish is the only candidate for the position who has announced himself, although several other possible appointees have been talked of. Mr. Bradish's term of office does not expire until next week at which time a successor will be made subject to the approval of the aldermen.

WESTBY MAN DIES HERE

James C. Nordie, Westby, died at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at a local hospital, after several weeks' illness. The body was taken to Westby yesterday. Interment will be made there tomorrow. He is survived by his widow.

JOHN A. LAWSON FOUND GUILTY FOR DEATH OF GUARD

Labor Head Sentenced to Life Imprisonment for Death of Ludlow Mine Guard

TRINIDAD, Col., May 3.—John R. Lawson, international executive board member of the United Mine Workers of America, was today found guilty of first degree murder for the death of John Nimmo, a mine guard in a strike riot at Ludlow October 25, 1913.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment at the state prison at Carson City at hard labor. "They may get me, boys, but not the cause I stand for," said Lawson to reporters immediately after the verdict was read by J. C. Rosebaugh, foreman of the jury.

Attorney Horace Hawkins for Lawson reserved exceptions to file a motion for a new trial.

Here's a Man Who Used Train For Alarm Clock; He Was Roused

Using a Burlington train for an alarm clock, proved disastrous to John Kurtz, address unknown, who at 3:40 yesterday afternoon was struck by a northbound extra freight train three miles north of Stoddard. His right leg was broken above the knee and amputation of his right hand and right foot was necessary at St. Francis hospital. He will live.

According to Engineer James B. Taylor, Kurtz was sitting on a suitcase in the middle of the track, apparently asleep. Repeated warnings by the whistle failed to arouse him. The train could not be stopped in time to avoid hitting him. He was brought to La Crosse and rushed to the hospital.

SINKING OF U. S. TANKER MAY BRING A FEDERAL PROBE

Oil Ship Gulflight Torpedoed by German Submarine Off Bishops Light, Sicily

PRESIDENT RUSHES TO CAPITAL

Chief Executive Returns from Massachusetts to Hear Details of the Incident

CASE WITHOUT A PARALLEL

Different Questions Involved in Sinking of William P. Frye Say Government Officials

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Secretary Bryan announced this afternoon that the state department will call upon Germany for a report on the torpedoing of the American steamship Gulf-light.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A serious situation, involving the United States with Germany or the allies, may result from the torpedoing of Bishops Lighthouse, Sicily island, at noon Saturday, by a German submarine, of the American oil tank steamer Gulflight. The ship was bound to Round from Port Arthur, Texas, with a cargo of naphtha.

President Wilson, who was at Williamstown, Mass., hurried back to Washington upon receipt of the news, arriving there at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Although informed of the incident at New Haven he declined to make any comment. He was rushed immediately to the white house where he went into consultation with high government officials.

Three of Crew Dead

Of the crew of thirty-six, thirty-three were landed at Sicily. Two of the crew, both Americans, jumped overboard and were drowned while Captain Albert Gunther, New York, died of heart failure as a result of the shock. The vessel was picked up by steam drifters and towed into Crow sound and beached.

Official Washington today was more than reticent regarding the Gulflight case. It was tacitly admitted that the incident promised complications more grave than any that have confronted this country since the war started.

German Embassy Silent

The German embassy, usually prompt to defend acts of the kaiser's land or sea forces, declined comment or explanation of either the sinking of the Gulflight or the bombardment of the American steamship Cushing by a German aviator near the Dutch coast Thursday. America's foreign representatives have been instructed to secure details relating to both cases and to rush the information to the state department.

Bryan Non-Committal

Secretary Bryan today was non-committal on the Gulflight matter, stating that information as to the torpedoing of the tanker had not been received here.

The Gulflight case is looked on here as distinctively different from that of the William P. Frye, sunk by the Kronprinz Wilhelm, the German sea raider which interned at the Norfolk navy yards after putting into Newport News in a badly disabled condition. In that case Capt. Thierichens gave those aboard ample opportunity to disembark, whereas, in the case of the Gulflight, it is said, the attack came from under sea without warning.

Cushing Case Serious

The case of the Cushing is equally as serious as that of the tanker, its nationality being so conspicuous that the attack was hard to condone in the views of officials.

Sink Other Neutrals

LONDON, May 3.—German submarines have sunk two additional neutral vessels according to word reaching the admiralty this evening. The Norwegian steamers Baldwin and Laila have been torpedoed and sunk in the North sea by a German submarine. It is believed that the crews escaped.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

FATE AT THE WHEEL

BY BARBARA COLVIN

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"If you would only give a fellow a chance to explain," protested Arnold Lee, as Paula turned a pink ear in his direction.

"I suppose you could think of a dozen excuses why you should forget an engagement with me!" blazed the irate young woman.

"I don't have to manufacture excuses," retorted Arnold decidedly. "I told you that Col. Wasby sent for me to go to the hotel to receive certain instructions before he went. I telephoned you and Nora said she would deliver my message."

"She did."

"And still you persist in being offended? Why, Paula, dear, my secretaryship with the colonel means a lot to me—to us! It means our getting married soon!" he pleaded.

"You are mistaken," said Paula coldly. "It means we will not be married at all—because you place your duty to the colonel before your duty to me! Here!" She held out the ring that had encircled her engagement finger for three happy months.

Arnold took it and dropped it in his pocket, still with the dazed, hurt look in his eyes. Then he turned away and went slowly down the drive. This was his first experience with the vagaries of woman and it had proved bitter-sweet.

"Never again!" he muttered grimly as he went back to his hotel.

The Wayne place, where Paula lived with her bookworm of a father and several servants, occupied a large park which was walled against the main highway from Orable to Kent.

Arnold was stopping at one of the small hotels in Orable while his employer, Col. Wasby, lived like a magnate at the Kent Palace. It had been Arnold's daily custom to motor between the two hotels every day in his little runabout, and thus his labors as secretary were lightened by occasional glimpses of his sweetheart.

But now this arrangement had its disadvantages. It was painfully awkward to go speeding past the hospitable gates to Waynewood. How many times had he turned his little car into the upper gate paused for a brief word with Paula, and then sped on around the drive and out of the lower gate and on to the dull routine of his secretarial duties.

Now, all this was at an end. The little car slid down the hill twice a day without even a friendly toot of its horn.

Arnold devoted himself so assiduously to his work that his appreciative employer raised his salary and predicted a bright future for him. The road to married life was plain enough now—but the one thing essential was lacking. He had lost Paula.

One morning, a fortnight later when there was sunshine on land and sea, and apparently everywhere save in poor Arnold's shadowed discovery that the little car which took him to his daily work refused to turn a wheel.

Lee, declining the proffered help of the mechanic at the hotel garage, fumbled over the intricate parts of the car and mended himself all up with oil and grease until his linen duster was as black as that of his would-be assistant, who stood nearby, a grin on his grimy face.

"I guess she'll go now, sir," he chuckled, as Arnold climbed wearily into the car and grasped the wheel. "If she doesn't—"

But she did!

The words of the mechanic were lost in the buzzing whir of the motor as the car lifted her front wheels and leaped forward.

There was a scattering of interested spectators, and an instant vanishing of the hotel and its grounds, as the machine tore down the drive and turned into the highway toward Kent.

Arnold crouched over the steering wheel, pulling at the speed levers without avail. Then, to his horror, he realized that the car would not respond to his guidance.

He had roused it to action, but it wouldn't stop! The steering gear refused to work!

Ahead of him was almost certain death, for the long road from Orable to Kent ended in the ocean front of the Kent Palace Hotel. It would be a spectacular and thrilling end!

The white road uncurled before the down-rushing machine. Soon he would come to the upper gate of Waynewood. Perhaps Paula, seeing him rushing past, would, later on, realize that she had seen him riding to his death. There was a certain melancholy satisfaction in the thought. His strained eyes were fixed on the road ahead. He must not wittingly endanger any other human lives on his mad rush to destruction. So he kept on sounding the horn of his little car ceaselessly, and quite forgot when he reached the first boundary of the Waynewood stone wall.

Just as he reached the upper gate of Waynewood, the off tire ground against a large stone, the car swerved sharply to the right and shot through the familiar gate of Waynewood.

At that instant Arnold would have preferred the plunge straight forward into the ocean.

"Zip-z-z-z-z!"

The tires hit hard in the bluestone drive until a curve was reached, when the machine plunged across the lawn, almost miraculously choosing a lane between two rows of Lombardy poplars.

The lane ended in Mr. Wayne's cherished bed of giant heliotrope, in the center of which stood an ancient sundial, whose stone pedestal was sunk deep in the ground. Around the brass face of the dial was inscribed the legend: "I mark only life's sunny hours."

Standing beside the sundial, knee deep in purple and white heliotrope, stood Paula and Wayne. Her bright, uncovered head was bent over the dial and her slender forefinger traced the words around the circle.

As Arnold rushed toward her in the runaway car their eyes met in mutual terror.

She heard his voice shouting something to her. She darted back toward the piazza, and then the car ended its journey by smashing into the stone pedestal and dislodging its disgraced owner.

"Bless my soul!" yelled Mr. Wayne as he came flying from the house, his pen dripping ink over his best white linen suit. "There goes my heliotrope!"

"Never mind your old heliotrope!" sobbed Paula as she flew past him. "Arnold is killed!"

They discovered the young man sitting dazed in a bed of crushed and hopelessly ruined flowers. In his lap was the dial plate hurled from its pedestal by the impact of the little car, which turned over on its side, grumbled fitfully and twitched spasmodically from inward disturbances peculiarly its own.

Everywhere there was a sweet and overpowering fragrance of heliotrope.

"What do you mean by this sort of speeding in my grounds?" demanded Mr. Wayne pompously. "Your position as my future son-in-law doesn't entitle you to take such liberties. You have made a fearful wreck of my most cherished—"

"But I am not your future son-in-law, Mr. Wayne!"

Arnold endeavored to rise, winced and resumed his seat.

The old gentleman glared from Paula's downcast face to Arnold's pale countenance.

"You didn't tell me, Paula!" he gasped in an aggrieved tone.

"He is your future son-in-law!" burst forth Paula tearfully. "I don't care what he says—I shall marry him so there!"

"Tut-tut!" chided Mr. Wayne startled at his daughter's words and electrified by the change in Arnold's expression. "You'll have to settle it between you, and if Arnold is injured he must be taken into the house at once and a doctor must see him."

"How about the heliotrope?" asked Arnold weakly.

"Fiddlesticks, young man; You had better attend to your lovelorn-ing!" snorted his future father-in-law, who had just then discovered

CHICAGO STRIKE BOUND

CHICAGO, May 3.—The most serious industrial situation that has confronted Chicago since 1900 ushered in May 1—international labor day. The 1,200 structural steel and iron workers who struck today brought the number of skilled workers on strike or locked out here up to 32,200. An additional 125,000 men whose work is dependent on the work of the skilled workers are in idleness.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Elephants That Work For A Living

"YOU children are going to the circus before long," said daddy, "you are both greatly interested in the elephants. I suppose you think that all those elephants have to do is to stand around and you look at them and eat hay and the peanuts which you put their trunks and do their tricks in the ring, don't you?"

"But elephants have to work as well as play, but they are so strong they do not mind it very much."

"An elephant is about the strongest animal there is. It would not do you to make one angry and let him take you in his trunk, for he would throw you just like a man would throw a baseball."

"You know, children, elephants are not native to this country, though baby ones have been born in menageries here. The home of the elephant in the hot countries of Africa and India. They are really wilder in Africa where there are immense jungles through which the elephants roam. African elephants are also taller than the East Indian elephants, though which are found in India are usually fatter than the ones in Africa."

"I suppose the elephants in Africa—that is, most of them that are through jungles where there are not many white men—are the happiest cause they are the freest. There are not so many of them that have to work for a living. But over in India, where the white man rules the Hindus, rules the elephants, too, and these big beasts do a great deal of work their living."

"You see, children, the elephant is a very intelligent old fellow. watch his funny little beady eyes the next time you see him in the menagerie and you will make up your mind that he is nobody's fool. He is thinking every minute."

"The white men know that, and you can see it by the way in which they have taught the elephants to do many wonderful tricks. And to see the phants at their work over in India is even more wonderful."

"Attended by a Hindu with a funny turban on his head, the elephant about his day's work. Perhaps he is engaged on a job of building. You see him take great tree trunks and timbers in his trunk that it would the work of many men or horses to move, and he'll move it from place just as easy."

"And he works cheap, too—just for his board, his three meals a day. It does take a lot to fill up an elephant."

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge, or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

YIELD TO THE INEVITABLE

In considering the board of education's plea for a new school building on the North side, aldermen should not miss the point that this is a problem of as much interest to the South side as to the North side.

The situation is analogous to that which confronted this city when Dr. Anderson was fighting for the new high school. The need was apparent, but the objection was made that the plans went far beyond the necessities. One alderman said the proposed school would not be filled in fifty years. That was eight years ago, and today it is insufficient. If we were to offer a suggestion regarding the plans for the North side school it would be that the present plans be enlarged.

From the angle of South side residents, the problem is to make room for South side pupils in the overcrowded high school, where the condition today is a serious hardship upon students and in the immediate future will be entirely unworkable. The North side viewpoint is even more serious. The statistics show that approximately 160 children in that section are being deprived of high school advantages because of the cost and inconvenience of attending on the South side. These children lose that portion of their schooling which most of all equips them to meet the problems of life.

This city cannot deny its residents an approximate equality of opportunity. It MUST take care of those North side citizens, whose rights and obligations are parallel with those of the remainder of the city. Nor can we in wisdom ignore either the needs of the present or the certain demands of the future. What is proposed today is an obligation that can not be avoided. Each year the demand will press harder, and it must be met. Superintendent Benetz and the Board of Education are acting with a view to economy, and theirs is the only practical course. Money spent to merely restore the old school would be wasted to the last farthing, for were that done the very next year would present in unanswerable terms the necessity for doing then exactly what is contemplated now. The thing is before us, barring the way of progress. We cannot evade the obstacle, we must surmount it. The greatest charge of society is the rearing of each new generation so as to fit them for the one step higher they must take in the progress of civilization. Look backward for a moment—it will help us to forge ahead.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, gives the United Press an interview at St. Paul in which he says steel mills throughout the country are now running at seventy per cent of their capacity. This does not mean that business is thirty per cent below normal, as all mills seldom if ever operate at full capacity at the same time. President Farrell adds that "our business is increasing daily in volume," and he predicts a season of genuine business activity in the development of which he does not consider war or peace a factor.

The monthly report of the Ninth Federal Reserve Bank, of which Frank P. Hixon of this city is a director, sounds a positive note of optimism. From that report we quote:

As compared with the previous month's report, the business conditions throughout the entire Ninth district show an improvement. A noticeable feature of developments during the past thirty days is the growth of a spirit of healthy optimism. Business men are not only talking more prosperous conditions, but they believe that an improvement is beginning to manifest itself, and are looking forward to a more active condition than has prevailed for many months.

Banks are in strong condition and are well prepared to meet the more active demands of the spring months. Interest rates are normal and money is easy.

Perhaps the most convincing evidence of the coming of a busy and prosperous season is that which comes from the recent newspaper meetings in New York city. There fourteen hundred publishers from every state in the union attended the meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' association. Reports were received from every state, and in not a single instance did these reports fail to reflect optimism based upon present and growing business activity. Mr. F. H. Burgess, manager of the TRIBUNE, attended this meeting, hence its cheering message comes to us with the conviction of personal experience.

The moral is, get busy and help make the good year still better by your participation.

INDEPENDENCE WINS
THE THIRD STRAIGHT
GAME FROM ARCADIA

INDEPENDENCE, Wis., May 3.—(Special).—In their third straight game of the season Independence high school on Saturday won from Arcadia high school 8 to 1. Both Sops for the losers and Wismer for the locals pitched good ball. Independence winning through ability to hit in the pinches. The visitors' lone tally was the result of a dropped fly.

He Helped

When I am dead, if men can say, "He helped the world upon its way; With all his faults of word and deed Mankind did have some little need Of what he gave"—then in my grave No greater honor shall I crave.

If they can say—if they but can—"He did his best; he played the man. His way was straight; his soul was clean."

His failings not unkind, nor mean; He loved his fellowmen and tried To help them—"I'll be satisfied."

But when I'm gone, if even one Can weep because my life is done, And feel the world is something bare Because I am no longer there; Call me a knave, my life mispent—No matter, I shall be content.

Alas for him who never sees The stars shine through the cypress trees!

Who, hopeless, lays his dead away Nor looks to see the breaking day Across the mournful marbles play! Who hath not learned in hours of faith

The truth to flesh and sense unknown, That life is ever Lord of Death, And Love can never lose its own.

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

"Doing mental arithmetic?" inquired the man at the next desk.

"No. Sentimental arithmetic."

"Yes, gentlemen," said the geologist, "the ground we walk on was once under water."

"Well," replied the patriotic young man of the party, "it simply goes to show that you can't hold this country down."

"Look here!" said an excited man to a druggist. "You gave me morphine for quinine!"

"Is that so?" replied the druggist. "Then you owe me 25 cents.—Christian Register."

An Englishman, serving his country as attaché to the British embassy at Washington, says that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the creator of Sherlock Holmes, has more than once been sought out by persons desirous of consulting him about thefts.

To one such woman Sir Arthur one day good naturedly and facetiously said: "My detective powers are quite at your service."

"Frequent and mysterious thefts," said the woman, "have been occurring at my house for a long time. Thus there disappeared last week a motor horn, a broom, a box of golf balls, a left riding boot, a dictionary and a half dozen tin pieplates."

"The case is perfectly clear," said Sir Arthur, "you keep a goat."—Lippincott's.

"Here, my son," said the father to Willie, "what does this mean? Your report gives you only fifty for arithmetic, and your teacher makes the comment that you can't count straight up to twenty-five. What are you going to do with such a record when you go into business?"

"Now, don't worry, father," replied the son. "To count up to twenty-five isn't necessary for success in business nowadays."

"Not necessary?" gasped the father.

"No, sir, I can start a 10 cent store."

Montpelier, Vt.—"We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would blot. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me."—Mrs. MARY GAUTHIER, 21 Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

An Honest Dependable Medicine

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

THE RED
MIRAGE

Bruma, Etc.

"Thank God for that much truth. If you had lied—" His hands released her. He had regained his self-control, but at a cost which made his calm more painful than any outburst of passion. "This is the first time that you have ever risked anything to be yourself," he went on quickly. "It will be the last. In a few days I—and others—will have left Siddi-bel-Abbes behind us—Siddi-bel-Abbes and civilization. What will happen then, God knows. But at least when the march is over—you won't have to decide any more. One way or another things will have been settled for you. So tonight is your last chance to act bravely and independently. Stay with me a little longer. There is no danger, and if there were, I shall take care of you. Sing to me, will you?"

"Sing to you?" she echoed blankly.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I told you—I have unaccountable tastes, and tonight they are all rampant. There is an old ramshackle upright over in the corner. I bought it of a bankrupt lieutenant and put it there—as a sort of tombstone. No one has ever touched it. It must be sadly out of tune, but you won't mind, and I—I have ceased to be particular. You will, won't you? In charity!"

He was pleading in a suave galantry which touched her. She felt the genuine emotion beneath, and it aroused, instantly, all the temporarily subjugated vanity, the thirsty insatiable desire of irresponsible power. Yet her eyes sought the shadows, as though they hid a patient waiting enemy.

"Some one will hear me."

"We are quite alone. The garden is all around us. Come! It is the last thing I ask of you—the last fancy. Afterward—I won't ask any more."

He took the little ivory fan and the gloves from her trembling hands and led her to the piano. "You see, though no one has ever played here, I must have known that one day you would come. I have kept the light burning. You won't refuse now?"

"What shall it be, Paul?"

"One of your foolish old English songs—such as your mother might have sung."

She laughed waveringly.

"Poor Paul! You won't understand—"

"I shall understand enough. I want you to be quite yourself—quite English."

She smiled up at him, but her eyes were still frightened. Beneath the reawakened desire to play her old comedy in this man's life there was the instinctive recognition that the time for graceful make-believe was over. Her hands fell weakly on the yellow keys, and for the first few bars her voice, rang flat and toneless in terror of itself. Then the deep-rooted vanity rose in reckless triumph over her fear, and she sang Annie Laurie with all the natural sweetness of her voice and with a sincerity of feeling which is sometimes a part of the gift, rarely an expression of the singer's self. Colonel Destin stood at the far side of the room by his table, his back toward her and one by one he burned the yellow, time-worn letters at the smoking candle.

"What was that?"

She had broken off abruptly, and now half rose, her hand gripping the side of the piano, her features white with panic. He lifted his head, but did not look at her.

"Did you hear anything?"

"Some one rode up—I heard the horse's hoofs—there is some one coming—now—"

Her voice was dry. Terror had stamped out all trace of beauty from her face. Destin crossed the room and held open a side door.

"Go in there!" he commanded quietly. "It is probably a message. In five minutes the man will have gone. Don't come in till I call you."

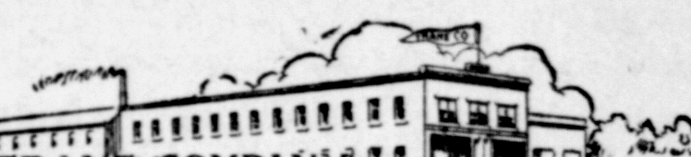

She obeyed unresistingly, and with one haunted glance over her shoulder, crept past him into the unlighted room. He closed the door and went back to his table. He was now perfectly calm. The hand that held the last letter to the flame betrayed no emotion. Some one knocked imperatively, and he answered the summons with tranquil indifference. As the door opened he glanced up.

The charred remnants of the letter were still in his hand and the eyes of the two men met fixedly over the wavering candle-flame. It seemed to blot out everything but their faces.

"Well?" Destin asked.

Richard Farquhar saluted.

"I have come with a message from General Meunier."

"It is well. Is it a letter?"

"Yes."

"Put it on the table. You are panting."

"My Colonel—I galloped. I was ordered not to lose a minute."

"The message is urgent, then?"

"Yes. A spahi arrived this evening with news that the tribes are rising. The outposts have been cut up. There is no communication between here and—"

"Give me the letter!"

Their hands touched. With rapid steady fingers Colonel Destin broke the seals and hurried over the half a dozen lines of precise writing. When he had finished he did not look up immediately. He was frowning and the thin lips were tightly compressed in swift concentrated thought. The whole man had changed in these few minutes. The mask was in its place, so absolute in its disguise of energy and steeled purpose that what had been before now seemed a grotesque incredible comedy.

"The First marches at midnight," he said, half to himself. "The orders were already given when you left?"

"Yes. Corporal Gotz's men were in campaign but five minutes after the signal."

"Ah, Gotz!" He smiled and caught the reflected light of battle in the legionary's fiery eyes. "It's good to get out of the infernal routine!" he exclaimed involuntarily.

"Yes my Colonel."

"You were badly wounded. What are you doing in this business? You aren't fit to carry a rifle."

He saw the tightening of the dogged jaws, and for a moment there flashed between them a strange sympathy—the sympathy of fighters to whom fighting is the great essence of life. It passed like a streak of light in the darkness. Colonel Destin turned away.

"Give my compliments to General Meunier. I shall be with the regiment in ten minutes."

This time there was no answer. The silence seemed to impress itself slowly on Colonel Destin's consciousness. He looked up over the top of the letter which he still held to the light and his gaze rested for a second on the little ivory fan and the white gloves—then passed upward, as though drawn by an irresistible fascination, to the face of the man opposite. He, too, had seen. A minute later their eyes met. In the distance a bugle chanted the Legion's war signal, "Aux armes! aux armes!"

BERLIN, May 3.—(Via Wireless Through Sayville).—Announcement by the war office of the new operations against the rich Baltic Russian provinces came as a joyous surprise to Germans generally. Nothing had been permitted to leak regarding the movement, although, judging from the fact that the troops already are over 60 miles from Memei, march must have commenced several days ago.

SYRIANS DISCUSS TEACHING RELIGION TO NEW GENERATION

Summer School Plans and Sunday Instructions Discussed at Business
Session

Definite arrangements for instruction in the doctrines of the Greek Orthodox church will be made at a meeting next Sunday of St. Elias Syrian congregation at the church on Mill street. Dan Sady, one of the prominent members of the congregation, said today. The matter of an establishment of a Sunday school has been up before the members of the church for some time.

Until the close of the public schools in June, instruction will be held on Sunday afternoons only. It will be decided at the meeting Sunday who will teach. After the close of the public schools, it is probable that the school will be held three or four days each week.

New Pastor is Discussed

The visit of Rev. Serophine Nassar to La Crosse recently aroused the spirit of the members of the congregation. Rev. Nassar in services conducted here advocated strongly the establishment of a school for religious instruction for the forty or more children of the church. He also suggested that a pastor be secured who would take charge of the day school during the week besides conducting stated services.

A pastor cannot be appointed for the congregation, however, until a successor is named for Bishop Raphael Hawaweeny of Brooklyn, who died February 27.

TRUCK DRIVER IS SUED FOR DAMAGE

Christina Davis, mother of Gordon Davis, infant, is starting suit in circuit court today for recovery for alleged injury to the child when it was run over by an auto truck operated by Norman Hall. The accident took place on George street, when Hall turned out of the way of a buggy. The complaint states that the truck was running at a fast rate of speed.

GIVE MISSION PAGEANT

"The Torch Bearer," a pageant, will be given next Friday night by the ladies of the Foreign Mission society of the Caledonia Street Methodist church. The pageant will be instructive in work in the foreign mission fields. Many of those participating will be in costume.

MUNGER FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

The funeral of Ralph L. Munger, Milwaukee road conductor who died Saturday morning at his home, 700 Mill street, will be held Wednesday at Frontenac, Minn., the home of his mother. The body will be taken to Frontenac tomorrow.

BANISH SCROFULA

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cleanses the Blood, Skin Troubles Vanish.

Scrofula eruptions on the face and body are both annoying and disfiguring. Many a complexion would be perfect if they were not present. This disease shows itself in other ways, as buncles in the neck, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, wasting of the muscles, a form of dyspepsia, and general debility.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine completely eradicates scrofula. It purifies and enriches the blood, removes humors, and builds up the whole system. It has stood the test of forty years, and has received thousands of testimonials of the entire satisfaction it has given.

Scrofula is either inherited or acquired. Better be sure you are quite free from it. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla and begin taking it today.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

If you feel exhausted and weak or tire easily, don't try to brace up on liquor or some patent medicine that will produce the same effect.

It is only temporary, and the reaction leaves you in worse shape than before.

What you want is more strength. Father John's Medicine is a pure food medicine; its ingredients are nourishing and strengthening. Nothing equals it as a tonic and body builder for all throat and lung troubles.

Contains no alcohol or injurious drugs. Get a bottle today; it will make you strong. Remember it has been in use fifty years.

COUNTY BOARD MEN TO ORGANIZE SOON

Early Meeting to Elect Officers and Fix Committees

Decided by the Supervisors

The organization meeting of the new La Crosse county board of supervisors will be held on a date nearer the middle of the present month than was at first planned, it was announced today by Bert A. Jollivette, county clerk.

Following the issuance of notices of a call made by Supervisor V. S. Keppel, Onalaska, for May 27, a majority of the supervisors signified that they desired it earlier in the month.

From the present outlook among members of the legislative body, R. W. Davis, Bangor, will probably be elected to succeed himself for the office of chairman. Supervisor Keppel's name has been mentioned, also. All business of the old board of supervisors, which disbanded at its last meeting, will be turned over to the new body.

Personnel of Board

The personnel of the new board follows:
Bangor, Fritz Meyer; village of Bangor, R. W. Davis; Barre, Fritz

Wolter; Burns, Orrin Fletcher; Campbell, John D. Richmond; Farmington, F. W. Storaunt; Greenfield, William Schams; Hamilton, Adolph Nuttleman; Holland, J. N. Nelson; Onalaska, V. S. Keppel; Shelby, Herman Pammel; Washington, Carl Hilke; village of West Salem, J. H. Moran.

City of Onalaska—First ward, Howard Cronk; Second ward, Abel N. Moore; Third ward, L. B. Cox.

City of La Crosse—First ward, John L. Ash; Second ward, George W. Hall; Third ward, J. J. Verchota; Fourth ward, Leonard Kleeber; Fifth ward, Joseph Gale; Sixth ward, M. L. Burton; Seventh ward, N. ## Appetite Follows Good Digestion

Nearly everyone indulges their appetite and the digestive organs are abused, resulting in a congestion of poisonous waste that clogs the bowels and causes much misery and distress.

The most effective remedy to correct this condition is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a natural, pleasant-tasting remedy, gentle yet positive in action, and quickly relieves indigestion, constipation, sick headache, belching, etc. Drug stores sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and in thousands of homes it is the indispensable family remedy. For a free trial bottle write Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

SPOTLIGHTS

"THE NEW HENRIETTA"
With William H. Crane, Thomas W. Ross, Maclyn Arbuckle, Amelia Bingham and Mabel Taliaferro to act a play that has gone through the dramatic fire and come out unscathed after a period of 30 years, to delight modern theater goers, the coming engagement of Joseph Brooks' "The New Henrietta" at the La Crosse Theater for one performance on Tuesday night, May 11th, will be the great event of the year in our theater. Mr. Brooks selected a play for his five stars which had been tried and found to be tremendously good in performance and which for many years has been a standby for several stars. Now it is revived, modernized and brought up-to-date by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes and called "The New Henrietta," with Mrs. Crane in his original part of Old Nick. Associated with him, we find Thomas W. Ross playing Bertie the Lamb, a capital light comedy role; Maclyn Arbuckle as the speculating parson; Amelia Bingham in the role of the brilliant and dashing Mrs. Opdyke, the dainty Mabel Taliaferro as the charming and delightful Agnes.

BILLIE BURKE A "MOTHER'S GIRL"
Miss Billie Burke is devoted to her mother.

Miss Burke is the popular young actress who is coming to the La Crosse Theater, Wednesday, May 12 in her latest success, "Jerry."

Mrs. Blanche Burke—that is her mother's name—used to be a newspaperwoman in Washington, D. C. She comes of a southern family and her father was a soldier of the confederacy. Compelled to earn her own living she got a position on a Washington paper and she met her fate when she was sent one day to interview "Billy" Burke, one of the most famous circus clowns and pantomimists of his day. They were married and then the present Billie Burke was born. They christened her Ethelbertha, but soon forgot it and always called her by the nickname.

Well, "Billy" Burke took his family to Europe when his daughter was eight years old and he died over there.

"That left mother and me alone in the world together," says the actress, "and until this season we've scarcely even been out of sight of one another. When I started on my present tour in 'Jerry' last September, mother wasn't feeling very well and so I had to leave her at home. Of course, I hear from every day and whenever it is possible I talk to her over the phone, but that isn't the same thing as having her right with me."

ROSE STAHL COMING
At the La Crosse Theater Tuesday, May 18, the Henry B. Harris Estate will present Rose Stahl in a new comedy, "A Perfect Lady." The comedy is in four acts and was written by Channing Pollock and Ben-Hold Wolf. The first act takes place at a railway station at Sycamore Junction, and the following acts transpire in the town of Sycamore.

GALESVILLE, Wis., May 3.—(Special.)—The new local village administration is devoting a great deal of energy in the direction of a general clean-up by property owners.

Ralph Canutson has the contract for the street sprinkling for the coming season.

The marsh adjoining the village has been declared by the city fathers to be a public nuisance. Steps have been taken to have it drained.

Concert Season Starts
The first open air concert by the local brass band was given last Friday evening. Former Mayor W. S. Wadleigh is director.

Schools Entertain
On May 14, at the opera house an entertainment will be given by the grades of the village schools under the auspices of the library board for the benefit of the Galesville public library.

Farmers Buy Autos
Between forty-five and fifty automobiles, 1915 models, have thus far been sold by local agencies. The farmer is the big customer. There are at least five local dealers in autos.

Twenty-six Graduates
Fourteen girls and twelve boys will graduate from the Galesville high school in June. The class roll is composed of the following: Annie May Bull, Agnes Hunter, Cyril Harmon Nelson, Gerald Eugene Wadleigh, Leslie Harry Dale, Winifred Edson Gordon, Shirley Wilmer Hanson, Forrest Thompson Kelman, Helmer Idus Madison, Athena Vesuvia Nyhr, Oscar Albert Olson, George Kenneth Smith, Oscar Helmer Strand, Archie Howard Swenson, John Webb Cance, Inez Minerva Enghagen, Marian Iowa Tower, Grace Dean Countess, Elma R. Herried, Nellie May Hess, Fannie Melvina Pederson, Myrtle Pederson, Marion Grace Phillips, Gwendolyn Pooler, Helen Isabel Runnestrand and Thelma Clara Severson.

Alumni Elects
The Galesville high school alumni last Friday evening elected the following officers: President, Edith L. Bartlett; vice president, Millie Sagen; secretary, Alma Swenson; treasurer, Joseph Hammer.

Sunday School Organized
Last Sunday in the township of Caledonia, a Sunday school was organized by Rev. George M. Donehog of Portage, Wis., and Rev. Benjamin Thomas of Galesville. The first session took place at the Bigelow school house at 10:30 in the morning, Sunday, May 2.

Elect Officers
The following officers were elected: Mrs. D. E. Chappell, superintendent; Mrs. Warren Bender, assistant superintendent; Mrs. Edwin Jahn, secretary; Miss Rena Salsman, treasurer; Miss Ella Ryder, organist; Mrs. Oscar Poss, assistant organist.

A preaching service is to be conducted in the school houses on Sunday evenings by Rev. Benjamin Thomas.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate acid incontinence, causing a burning, stinging sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble. Charles A. Beyschlag, Druggist, 503 Main St.

REV. BURSACK GOES TO DORCHESTER, WIS.

Rev. Gustav L. Bursack, pastor of the Emmanuel Evangelical Association church at Vine and Twelfth streets, has accepted a charge at Dorchester, Wis., it was announced Saturday. Rev. Bursack preached his last sermon at the local church yesterday. He will preach his first sermon at Dorchester next Sunday.

The local pastorate will not be filled immediately. Rev. Bursack said. The church has been affected by the policy of the Evangelical association of temporarily abandoning many of the smaller congregations throughout the state. The pulpit will be filled by visiting pastors from time to time, however.

THE PRICE OF SUCCESS

Many people pay a terrible price for success, sacrificing for it health and happiness. Neurasthenia, a typically American disease, is due to worry over the struggle for success more than to any other one thing.

Neurasthenia is a condition of nervous exhaustion in which the system fails to recuperate after unusual demands upon its nervous energy. Its symptoms are over sensitivity, irritability, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, possibly nausea.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed towards building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Begin the treatment today before your condition becomes chronic.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

MRS. CARMAN IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

Wife of Mineola Physician on Trial for Murder of
Mrs. Louise
Bailey

COURTROOM PACKED EARLY

So Great Is Morning Throng
That Tickets Are Issued
for Admittance; Much
New Evidence

MINEOLA, L. I., May 3.—Without motion Mrs. Florence Carman today again answered before a bar of justice an indictment charging murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey last June. Her husband and her counsel were both grimly confident as the trial opened that her name would be cleared. Last fall the twelve men before whom she was tried disagreed. Today it was reported that both sides had developed several new witnesses. At any event counsel both for the prosecution and defense flatly refused to outline their cases in advance of presentation.

Shot Through Window
It was on a summer evening that Mrs. Louise Bailey, wife of a respected resident of Freeport, came to consult Dr. Carman. The woman's husband testified at the first trial he did not know the physician and was not aware that his wife consulted him. The night of the murder she was in consultation with the physician, several other patients being in a waiting room, when a hand was poked through a window and a shot fired that killed Mrs. Bailey almost instantly. The prosecution at the former trial endeavored to show Mrs. Carman as extremely jealous of her husband. They developed several very damaging admissions of Mrs. Carman's movements and her appearance on the night of the shooting from Celia Coleman, a negro maid, but the maid's own admission that she had told various versions under oath undermined her evidence.

Bailey Assists State
William D. Bailey, husband of the slain woman, is taking an active part in the case. He engaged James E. Wilkinson, a New York lawyer, to aid the state's attorney. He also is said to have retained private detectives who aided materially in the unearthing of new evidence.

The selection of a jury today was expected to be a hard matter. It is believed that it will be difficult to find twelve men in the county who have not formed their opinions on the case.

CHORAL SINGERS PLAN RECITAL

The regular meeting of the La Crosse Choral club will be held tomorrow evening at W. R. U. hall. In addition to the rehearsal, there will be several matters of great importance discussed. Every member is therefore urged to attend.

Those who have been attending the meetings are very enthusiastic over the development of the club has shown since its organization. Several numbers have been learned very thoroughly and if it were not for the lateness of the season, a concert would be arranged.

The club will present two of the foremost artists in their respective lines on Friday, May 21. A. Leon Bloom, pianist, and Ludwig Schmidt, violinist, will give a recital on that date under the auspices of the club. Great interest is being shown in the coming of these talented young men, as they have been enthusiastically received in all parts of the country.

EUROPEAN WAR ENDURANCE CONTEST WITH PEACE REMOTE

Defensive Strength Great
"Millions of men working for months along the western line have evolved defenses on both sides, the strength of which is almost inconceivable. Behind hundreds of miles of fighting line now occupied by each army, and consisting of a front trench, a secondary trench and a reserve trench, the whole connected by communicating trenches, lie a series of even more complete lines of defense, each consisting of the same three major lines interlaced by communicating trenches and each with its miles of barbed wire entanglements in place.

"Whereas the present fighting line was chosen rather at random—just where the foes clashed and the men dug themselves in—each of the lines in the rear has been constructed along strategical lines selected by engineers. Intervals of from six to fifteen miles separate these reserve lines; the net result is that even a successful smashing of an enemy's fighting line and a breaking through at any one point, only means that the defeated force falls back a few miles to take up a new position in a stronger trench already waiting.

Still Has Resources
"Germany has not yet exhausted her reserves in the matter of men. France has developed so rapidly during the past six months that she will be able to get her efficiency little higher. Russia apparently can contribute nothing more than she has so far except increased numbers and Hindenburg has shown that mere numbers cause him little worry.

No Signs of Defeat
"There has been nothing so far to indicate that Germany faces a probability of defeat in the open field. If defeated it will probably be only by wastage. Meanwhile the wastage of the allies will be equally heavy. If France or Belgium can contribute nothing more the additional weight necessary for an allied victory must come from England.

Press Censorship
"Up to this time the average Englishman has not sensed the price that he will have to pay for a crushed Germany. He has not yet suffered as Germany and France has suffered, because relatively his contribution of troops has been small. A press censorship to which the Englishman is wholly unaccustomed has prevented him from getting the thrill that would come from a full knowledge of the facts. As a result England is rapidly approaching a point where she must choose between one of three courses, abolish her press censorship and give her newspapers an opportunity to double or triple her present volunteer army through a stirring of British patriotism; resort to conscription and in that way obtain the needed number, or make up her mind to abandon her ideas of decisively defeating Germany."

CARD OF THANKS.
We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy during our recent bereavement in the death of our son and brother. Especially do we wish to thank Rev. J. T. Gamm and all those who sent floral offerings.

Mrs. Minnie Brenner and Family.

REMARKABLE SHOTS BY NEW RECRUIT WITNESSED SUNDAY

A feat, without parallel in La Crosse militia circles, was performed yesterday afternoon by Harvey Adams, 18, 607 South Third street, in the Company M shoot on the range near the county farm in the town of Shelby. Adams made a score of 45 out of a possible 50 from five hundred yards. The one shot that did not hit the bull's eye was hard to decide as whether it hit the first or the second ring.

"The feat was absolutely remarkable," said Captain F. H. Fowler today, "especially in view of the fact that Adams had never shot an army gun before. The firing of the high-powered guns close to him seemed not to affect his skill. The score is one which only the most expert shots have hitherto made."

Adams enlisted but recently.

DENTAL INSPECTORS START SCHOOL WORK ON FURSTMAN PLAN

All School Children's Teeth
to Be Rigidly Examined
for Cavities and Disease Germs

SERVICE TO BE FREE TO ALL

Dental Chair to Be Added to Equipment at Health Department Where Work
Will Be Done

Dental inspection in the public and parish schools of the city was begun today by Health Commissioner J. W. Furstman, who today launched a campaign to save the teeth of La Crosse school children.

Practically all the dentists of the city have accepted the proposition of Dr. Furstman to go into the schools of the city regularly and make inspections. No charge will be made to those unable to pay. Whatever expense is incurred in the furthering of the program will be met by subscription, Dr. Furstman said. No expense will devolve on the city. Not all the children will need dental inspection, it is thought, as many are now regularly under the dentist's care.

The schools of the city will be apportioned among the dentists entering the campaign, each to have complete charge of inspection in his school. At present, all work will be conducted in their respective offices.

Dentist Chair in City Hall
The Shafer-Pierce company has consented to donate the use of a dental chair and engine to be set up in one of the offices of the health department in the city hall. The apparatus will not be ready for use until the opening of school next fall.

La Crosse is the second city in Wisconsin to inaugurate dental inspection in public schools. Milwaukee having had a similar department for some time. The two cities are among the few in the country that have started inspection in the schools.

Approximately five thousand pupils in the eleven public and nine parochial schools of the city will be included. The normal and high schools and the model school of the normal are not included.

Superintendent of Schools L. P. Benetz has given his hearty sanction to the plan as has the entire board of education. Principals of several of the city schools have for some time been strongly in favor of the move.

CARS ALL STOP AND LIGHTS QUIT AS STORM HITS

La Crosse in Darkness and Forced to Walk in Rain
as Hatfield "Juice"
Fails

Telephones were put out of commission, part of the downtown district was enveloped in darkness and street cars were tied up in the loop district for almost an hour when rain fell in torrents and wind gained a velocity of twenty miles an hour at 11 o'clock last night.

Starting with a mild shower in the early evening, the rain grew heavier until some of the streets were veritable floods. Almost an inch of rain fell. With the worst of the rain, a wind storm swooped down on the city, damaging about 500 'phones and disabling power wires of the Wisconsin Railway Light and Power company between La Crosse and Hatfield.

Theater Crowds Drenched
Many theaters and others downtown late last night were drenched and crowds were forced to wait an hour for street cars. Practically the entire system on the south side was disabled for some time.

Aside from wires, little damage was reported by the wind. The wind storm covered an area extending over the western part of this state and eastern Minnesota, while the rain was general all over Wisconsin and part of Minnesota.

POLICEMEN HAVE ELECTION

The police department members held an election on Saturday.

As result Captain "Larry" Dugan, Patrolman William Fitzsimmons and Patrolman Daniel Deneen, together with the chief of police, city treasurer and city comptroller, will have charge of the police pension funds for the next two years. The commissioners will meet next week to elect officers.

STUDENT WORKERS FINDING PLACES THROUGH BUREAU

High School Employment
Scheme Works Out Well;
Many Obtain Jobs
During First Week

VARIOUS LINES OF ENDEAVOR

Girls Go Out as Domestic
While Boys Seek Business and Other Fields
Downtown

Over fifty names have been handed in to Miss Winifred Forber at the high school students who wish to work after school or on Saturdays. Students seeking work in almost every line have reported. Requests for office jobs, stenographer and book-keeper positions, positions as clerks, errand boys, chauffeurs, messengers, canvassers, pianists in movie shows or orchestras, and work taking care of lawns and doing odd jobs about the house, have been filed with Miss Forber, who is doing her best to secure positions for them. There are some who desire to obtain positions in machine shops, while others wish electrical work. A number of applications for house work and taking care of children have also been made by girls in the school.

Positions are Being Found
A number of positions have already been secured for applicants. Some of those with whom high school students have been placed are Mrs. E. G. Roth, Mrs. Monaca Dunn, O. T. Erhart, and Converse & Schultz Bros. Glove company. Requests for help have been sent in also by the LA CROSSE TRIBUNE and the Woman's Exchange and others who will be able to use high school students for part or whole time.

Interviews with employers have shown them to be well pleased with the students placed with them. The Converse & Schultz Glove company, with whom Wm. Walker has secured a position as salesman, has offered him a permanent position if he will accept. Other employers are equally well satisfied and present indications point to a great success of the scheme both from the standpoint of the students and the employers.

People about town needing help are requested by the bureau to send in their requests which will be given the attention of the bureau immediately.

BIG FEATURES AT THE MAJESTIC

For a summer's run the Majestic will present all features at each change of program.

Today and Tuesday the Majestic will present the noted feature "Capt. Alvarez." Paul Gilmore's great success. It is a Vitaphone romantic drama in six parts. In the cast are such noted players as Edith Storey, William D. Taylor, George Stanley, George Holt, Otto Lederer, Myrtle Gonzalez and George Kunkel.

The story deals with a young American who goes to Argentine republic to look after his father's interests and finds himself in a red hot revolution. A pretty little love romance is interwoven in the plot.

Wednesday and Thursday the Broadway star feature "My Official Wife," a drama in five parts, will be presented. Friday and Saturday the Indian players present their passion play "Hiawatha," a picture masque in four parts.

BOY MURDERED; CASE A MYSTERY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 3.—The body of six year old Adam Woldik was found propped against a telephone pole in an east side alley, in the rear of his home today. The boy who disappeared Sunday night, had been dead several hours and his clothes were sodden with rain. He had been strangled. Relatives and the police are at a loss for a motive.

FRED SERVIS DIES AT CHICAGO HOME FUNERAL TODAY

Former La Crosse Tailoring
Merchant Succumbs to Long Illness; Body
Brought Here

Frederick T. Servis, son of the late T. D. Servis, of La Crosse, and former merchant here, died Friday afternoon in Chicago, after a long illness. His funeral was held at 10 o'clock this morning from Christ Episcopal church, Rev. William Everett Johnson officiating. Interment was made in the family lot in Oak Grove cemetery.

Pallbearers were H. J. Hirschheimer, C. H. Schweizer, J. M. Honey, George Bunge, W. F. Goodrich and J. E. McConnell. The body was brought to La Crosse Sunday morning by his brother, Morton K. Servis of Chicago, and was taken to the home of his uncle, Charles T. Servis, 719 Vine street.

Had Been a Salesman
Frederick T. Servis, who for a number of years was connected with his father, T. D. Servis, in the tailoring business, had for the last years been a traveling salesman. Surviving him are his widow, one brother, Morton K., of Chicago, and two children, Frederick Jerome and Mary Louise.

Fred Servis was born in LaCrosse January 2, 1868. He was married June 7, 1903 to Miss Isabel M. Trow of this city.

TOMORROW SET AS FINAL DAY BYELECTRICIANS

Contractors Must Be Signed
by Employers Who Hint
at Strike; Carpenters
Also Are Anxious

Electrical contractors of La Crosse have today been notified by the journeymen electricians, who since Saturday have been "laying off," that contracts now being circulated among the "bosses" must be signed by tomorrow night when action will be taken on the contracts by the union.

The electrical workers ask no increase in wages for the present year but demand an absolutely "closed" shop, which several of the employers have declined to approve.

Journeymen carpenters in La Crosse are also at outs today, their contracts with the employers also having expired Saturday. The carpenters are for a wage scale of 45 cents an hour, eight hours work and a six hour day with double pay for Sundays and holidays and time and a half for overtime work.

ALFRED MILLER WEDS IN CHICAGO

State Bank Employee Steals
March on Friends and Is Married to Miss Mary
Randall

Alfred J. Miller, son of John A. Miller, 1212 State street, was married in Chicago this morning to Miss Mary Randall of Mauston, Wis.

Miller, who is a bookkeeper at the State bank, was last seen in La Crosse Saturday night, when he took a train for Mauston and Chicago. Although his engagement to Miss Randall had been rumored for some time, nothing definite was known concerning the romance outside the family until he failed to report at his desk at the State bank this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will remain away from La Crosse for some time, it is understood, on their honeymoon. They will live in La Crosse.

And the broad and crooked road is also paved with good intentions. After a woman has told a third of the story men can guess the rest.

An honest man is indeed a good thing—for his creditors.

How to Overcome or Prevent Pyorrhea

Among many diseases from bad teeth are: Chronic inflammation of the pharynx, disease of the middle ear, gastritis, gastric ulcer, anemia. Poisons generate in the digestive tract from germs of dental origin and set up inflammation of connective tissues between the bundles of nerve cells in the overworked area. The disquieting feature, says the London Lancet, is that teeth and gums which appear perfectly healthy may be germ breeders. These discoveries add new terrors to pyorrhea, or Riggs' disease. It is imperative to look to your gums and teeth constantly. You can tell, of course, when gums recede from the teeth, when they are sensitive to heat or cold, sweets or tobacco, when red, swollen, inflamed, bleed easily, are sore or tender, when pus exudes or you find gums shrink from the necks of the teeth. And you can easily overcome these conditions if you will get from your druggist say four ounces of fluid organ (you won't need more), and use a teaspoonful morning, noon and night, rocking this to and fro in the mouth for a minute or so, then throwing it out. The pale straw color or deep yellow peels off and your own white enamel is shown.

HEAVY CALENDAR IS ISSUED TODAY FOR MAY COURT

Long List of Jury Cases and Eight Criminal Actions to Be Taken Up on Monday

LABEL INSURANCE SUITS ON

Burglars, Brass Thieves,
Auto Revelers, a Milk-
man and Others to Face Trial

Eight criminal cases and a long list of jury and court trials are listed for the May term of circuit court which opens here next Monday.

The two suits instituted by Rev. Alfred Leslie Morse, life insurance agent, against the Modern Woodmen of America and Benjamin F. Keeler here, which have been hanging fire in circuit court for several months, are expected to be tried. Morse asks the recovery of $50,000 in one suit and $100,000 in another, for the alleged publication by Keeler and his insurance company of pamphlets bearing the caption, "Who's Who." They are said to refer unfavorably to Morse.

Burglars to be Tried
Hugh Robertson and John Wicklinski will be tried on charges of burglary. Jack Fuller, La Crosse, junk dealer, will be tried for receiving stolen brass, taken by boys from the John Gund Brewing company.

Cornelius Hans, Benjamin Moe, Philip Roth, Thomas Pretrasky, Andrew Rothvick and William and Louis Wittenberg, found guilty by a jury in police court of fighting will be heard by Judge Brindley.

Many Jury Cases
Jury cases are J. Bartl company vs. Anton F. Butzel; D. M. Skundberg vs. Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company; Alfred Leslie Morse vs. Modern Woodmen of America; Alfred Leslie Morse vs. B. F. Keeler; Ivey O. Blinston vs. Estate of Oscar F. Anderson; Joseph Raith vs. Wisconsin-Minnesota Electric Light and Power company; A. L. MONEY ALL WENT
TO WIFE'S FAMILY
SAYS W. BUPSER

Charging that practically all his money went towards the support of his wife's family, William Bupser, 1113 Avon street, today asked circuit court to set aside the complaint of his wife, Mrs. Emma Bupser, who simultaneously started suit for divorce.

Mrs. Bupser's charge is that her husband treated her cruelly and inhumanly, but "hubbys" story differs vastly.

For an entire year, the husband's answer asserts, Mrs. Bupser did not come home but infrequently, but left her husband to cook his own meals and care for the home. Bupser charges that his wife used $500 of his money to pay her father's life insurance policy, and that when he died she proceeded all went to members of his family.

Upon Mr. Bupser's buying a valuable rug for the home, it is said, Mrs. Bupser sold it. At another time, it is claimed, Mr. Bupser gave his wife $36 for rent, and that she used it to pay for papering her father's home.

Still another time, Mr. Bupser charges, a sum of $45 which he gave her was disposed of for the benefits of her father's family.

NORMS SWAMP OPACOS

ART NOTES

WE ARE GOING TO BUY A PICTURE. Let every man, woman and child have stock in it. It will belong to the general public. Ten cents will give YOU a part in it.

The picture bought will hang in the public library.

Buy as many votes as you can afford. Hundreds of citizens should buy from one to several dollars' worth of votes each.

Victor Higgins is represented here by two canvases—the "Old Street in Bruges" and "The Moorland Piper." He painted for about a year at Bruges. Very near the scene of this picture is a submarine station and ammunition depot, both of which have recently been destroyed by the allied aviators.

Two of the canvases at the library have been purchased since being hung here; one, "The Moorland Piper," by the Terrellhaute Art association, and the snow scene, "Across the Ravine," by someone in Chicago. "The Moorland Piper" was painted in Cornwall, England, near St. Ives.

If they wish, the children can buy a picture with their own votes—any one they prefer.

The sketching club will be organized early in this week.

Art, to succeed, must be democratic, for all, not a thing for the few.

Beauty is universal and cannot be owned by any individual. It is the possession of whoever can enjoy it. The wealthy man may own the flower garden, but every passerby may have its beauty; he may possess the canvas of a master but his servant may be the only one of the family that really gets the beauty of it.

Professor Watson says that with a slight expenditure of money La Crosse may have in the public library an ideal little art gallery.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever;

Its loveliness increases; it will never

Pass into nothingness; but still will keep

A bower quiet for us, and a sleep

Full of sweet dreams, and health and quiet breathing.

—Keats' Endymion.

Joining the Art Association is helping to bring frequent exhibits of good pictures to La Crosse and aiding in starting a permanent collection of good paintings.

Be a charter member of the A. A. L. C. Hand your name to any of the board or give it to the attendant in charge at the exhibit. Or telephone to the secretary, Miss Helen Dorset, or to the treasurer, Mr. Carl Rau. When it is convenient, pay your dollar and get a membership card.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
 BY HAL SHERIDAN
 (Written for the United Press.)

The first real battle at the turnstiles was pulled off in Chicago yesterday when all three Chicago teams performed at home. The following results were obtained.
 Attendance—Sox, 16,000; Whales, 6,000; Cubs, 4,000.
 It was like the old American League days at St. Louis to see Eddie Plank and Cy Falkenberg battling. They staged a real scrap, too.
 Cobb and Crawford staged their age-worn specialty of breaking up a ball game at White Sox park, ably assisted by gold edged pitching.
 By the way, what's become of the gent who prophesied that Boston's Red Sox were going to walk away with the pennant?

SECOND GAME OF THE YEAR IS WON BY THE NELSONS

Houston Falls Before Local Team by Score of 7 to 3 at League Park Yesterday

NELSONS HIT IN PINCHES

Meinert and Hackner Act as Cleanup Men; Squier Fans Ten Houston Batsmen

Ability to hit in the pinches yesterday afternoon won for the Nelson Clothing company baseball club in their game with Houston at league park. The score was 7 to 3.
 Cold weather has its dampening effect on the game. The time was 2:15. Five errors were made by the Nelsons and four by Houston.
 Roeder, Beranek, Hackner and Squier were the hitting stars of the Nelsons. Lougen starred for the Houston team, getting a double and a triple in five times at bat. Beranek and Hackner both got a single and a double and Roeder and Squier each made two singles.
 The Nelsons started scoring in the first inning. Roeder singled and went to second on Beranek's sacrifice. Hackner doubled, scoring Roeder, took third on an out and later scored on a dropped ball by the Houston catcher. King scored in the second on a base on balls, and an out and a single by Squier.
 Two more tallies were added in the fifth when Beranek singled, making second on Hackner's grounder. The two worked a double steal and came home on Meinert's single. After Roeder had singled and Beranek had doubled in the eighth, Hackner singled, Roeder and Beranek scoring.
 Squier struck out ten Houston batters. Foss fanned four.

KEELER PLACES IN MEET AT PURDUE

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 3.—Wisconsin won the track meet here on Saturday from Purdue, 84 to 42. Campbell, Wisconsin, won the half mile in 1:55 3-5 and Mucks won the shot put with a heave of 45 feet 6 inches and the discus throw with 138 feet 1 inch.
 Keeler of La Crosse took third place in the shot put and the discus throw.

"The Best Tobacco Made"

Emphatic Statement by an Eminent Authority—Pipe-smokers, Read what John G. Capers Has to Say

"When I was Commissioner of Internal Revenue under Presidents Roosevelt's and Taft's Administrations, I had a great deal to do with tobacco. In the collection of millions of dollars of tax I came intimately into contact with the whole business. Tuxedo I consider the best tobacco made. I smoke it myself and find it soothing and restful, mild, fragrant and non-irritating to the throat."

John G. Capers

Mr. Smoker, that's evidence straight from an authority that Tuxedo is the top-notch smoke of them all. The tobacco that a famous Internal Revenue Commissioner chooses for his own smoke because he considers it the best tobacco made.

And remember this, men:—that's picking Tuxedo from a mighty big field; for between you and us and the account sheet, the Government collects $100,000,000 a year in revenues from tobaccos.

Mr. Capers is now a prominent and successful practicing lawyer in Washington, D. C., and we are glad to include his name in Tuxedo's great list of friends. It's the same old story everywhere Tuxedo is tried: Quality tells.

Don't quarrel with your pipe and don't quarrel with your tongue. Take your tobacco troubles to good old Tuxedo!

Your pipe'll be sweet and your tongue'll be sound if you smoke Tuxedo. Tuxedo can't bite or blister. That's all taken out by the famous "Tuxedo Process"—the original process which the other brands like so well that they try to imitate it.

And you'll find the Internal Revenue Commissioner absolutely right as to Tuxedo's quality.

'HIGH'S' ATHLETES START WORK TODAY

Sprinters, Hurdles and Discus Hurlers Take Opening Examinations
 Sprinters, long distance runners, hurdlers and weights men reported at the high school this morning for examination before entering the interclass meet which will be held at the high school next Saturday.
 From records already made by the men this class meet promises to be the most bitterly contested one in the last year's history of the school.
 Excellent records are being made by men in every branch of track and field work. Walter Reget has made twenty feet in the broad jump, five feet, five inches in the high jump, and is also doing well in the discus throw.
 Fay has reduced the time of the half mile to two minutes and fourteen seconds and is throwing the discus over a hundred feet. In the twelve pound shot put he has thrown the shot forty feet and promises to do even more in the meet.
 Krenz is running the mile in five minutes, five seconds, and on a larger track will be able to cut off ten seconds more as he already has lots of "pep" left for the sprint at the finish and is never worn out.
 Besides these men Stupka, Nelson, Thompson, King, Weeks and Jenks are making an excellent showing in their special lines of work.

TENTH EPISODE.

A Prisoner on the Yacht.

CHAPTER I.

NED WARNER, in front of the blazing windows of the New York cafe, stood as one in a daze, deaf to all the words of Bobbie and Iris Bloehering, who feared, from the ashen pallor of his face, that his murderous frenzy might react upon himself. He saw again his lovely runaway bride being forced out of the cafe against her will by the man with the white mustache and that infernal scoundrel with the black Vandyke, Gilbert Blye! He saw himself prevented by the frightened Bobbie and Iris and the solicitous waiters from dashing among the glittering tables and grappling Blye by the throat and strangling him to death. He saw himself rushing to the ornate entrance through which they had taken his beautiful June and arriving in time only to see her whirl away into the night in Blye's luxurious limousine.

Blye's Face Appeared Above the Rail

the heavy man with the thick eyelids up in front with the driver, the middle aged woman and the vivacious brunette with concern and fright on their pale faces as the dome light of the car shone down upon them, and on the rear seat with June the two men who had carried her away by violence, the white mustached man laughing, and the dark, handsome face of Gilbert Blye bending over June with that suave smile on his lips.

Too late! Too late for anything but his stupor. The limousine had turned the corner. On that side of the cafe there was not a taxi to be seen. Bobbie's car stood in front, on the other street. While Iris endeavored to arouse the stupefied Ned, Bobbie ran around and brought his roadster. They drove up to the corner and turned down the street through which the limousine had disappeared, but where in all that wilderness of moving vehicles could the track of June be found? Nowhere! It was as if the earth had opened and swallowed her up.

It might as well, for June, in a swift motorboat with the gay party which had kidnapped her from the cafe, was then swiftly approaching a long, low yacht which loomed gracefully above them in the misty river.

June's struggles were useless in that heaving water and her cries of protest were unheard in that lonely waste. Strong arms lifted her to her feet; a strong hand from above grasped hers, and she was pulled up to the deck. Below her she heard the laughter of the three men who had abducted her, and with their laughter blended the shrill, high voice of that vivacious brunette, Tommy Thomas. June's heart sent out a wild call to Ned. This had been the first time she had seen his face since the day of their wedding.

At the door of the sumptuously fitted crimson and gold salon on the yacht the tottering June was confronted by a stolid steward with gray mutton chop whiskers and a puckered looking stewardess, who wore, as if habitually, a half whimper.

"The dearie looks faint," said the stewardess. "Well, bring the young lady a glass of wine, you," gruffly ordered the steward.

Mrs. Villard came in and dropped in a chair, while the vivacious Tommy danced over to the gold lacquered piano, its beautiful marine view painted by the famous Velaz. Blye and the white mustached Cunningham and the heavy Edwards followed, laughing, as Wilkins wheeled in from the pantry a portable buffet, its frosty topped bottles packed in glistening ice.

"Have a taste of this, dearie. It will soothe your nerves." The whining stewardess held to June's lips a glass of sherry, but June drew away from it with repugnance, and, rising, hurried away from the sumptuously fitted salon. She did not know where that passageway led, except that it led away from that hateful company. The stewardess followed her, the glass of sherry still in her hand. "Right in here, dearie," and she opened the door of a magnificent stateroom, its mahogany walls paneled with ivory tinted tapestry, its brass bed hung with rich lace.

June hesitated, but down the passageway came Orin Cunningham, his eyes twinkling and the laughter of wine upon his lips. June darted into the magnificent stateroom, hastily shut the door and locked it.

In the crimson and gold salon were the popping of corks, gay laughter, in which even Mrs. Villard joined, and then the loud strains of swift dance music, pounded out by the nimble fingers of Tommy Thomas.

Blye sat quietly, with that suave smile upon his lips and stroking his black Vandyke with his long, lean white fingers, upon one of which sparkled a diamond. He rose presently, and, tiptoeing down the gangway, stopped at June's door and listened. He could hear an occasional stifled sob as June sat amid the soft cushions of the couch. Before her, through a half open door, could be seen a glimpse of a snowy white bathroom, and in the adjoining little pale blue boudoir stood June's own luggage!

Ned! That brief sight of him had filled June's whole soul with longing. Poor little runaway bride! There were the rattle of a donkey engine and the scraping of chains on the yacht Hilarity. The anchor was coming up, and there was an instant change in the easy rocking of the craft. She shuddered, and then there was the sound of seething water as the Hilarity gathered headway. June was on her feet in an instant. She ran to the porthole and gazed out at the barely moving lights along shore. The portholes were too small to let her shoulders through. She ran to the door and opened it stealthily, then closed it and held the knob as Tommy Thomas and Orin Cunningham danced past in the salon.

June sat on the couch in her stateroom, with her hands locked upon her knees, staring into the white slice of brightness formed by the tiling of the bathroom, and while she pondered on what she should do Marie and Henri reached the city and stopped at a telegraph office. When they came out of that place a short, wide, thick man who had been wading down the street, with a blunt stub of a cigar in one corner of his mouth and a look of habitual furtiveness in his little eyes, started abruptly at sight of Marie, and when the touring car started the short, wide man hung on behind, his cigar stub firmly clamped between his teeth.

The doorbell rang at the Moore home in Brynport. Stern John Moore, reading his paper beneath the portrait of June, looked up quickly, and there was a slight tremor at the corner of his paper. Aunt Debby's voice was heard.

"Why, it's Mr. Ned and Miss Iris. Why, good evenin'. The folks is to home."

Stern John Moore listened with silent attention while Mrs. Moore, her hand upon her breast, stifled the emotions to which Iris Bloehering gave full play as the "kidnaping" was described.

There was but one conclusion among the men, and Ned, composing his voice as he passed from the mention of Blye, stated that conclusion.

"Our Daughter is in Danger!"

"It is a matter for the police," he declared and picked up the telephone. "Our daughter is in danger," said the grave voice of John Moore.

CHAPTER II.

IN the dock adjacent to the one from which the Hilarity's motor tender had departed there paced, almost perceptibly, a night watchman, who consisted of an overcoat, a cap and two glints of eye. To him there came, as the docks intensified their loneliness, a brisk little chauffeur with a thin mustache and a woman with high cheek bones.

"The Hilarity," stated the little chauffeur, with an accusing tone, and with a sweeping gesture he pointed to that adjacent dock where stood a big hamper with the word "Hilarity" glaring white on its side. "She is gone!" Then Henri stepped back.

"Yep," rumbled a frosty voice. "But her tender," objected Henri, "also is gone. Listen, my friend," insisted Henri, stopping in front of the overcoat and cap, but moving aside as it came irresistibly on. "The facts are like these. Mademoiselle has gone on board the Hilarity. Be-hold, here is the maid of the charming mademoiselle. She was also to have gone on board the Hilarity. How, then, shall she go?"

"Dunno."

The maid of the charming mademoiselle now stepped forward. "Can you drive a motorboat?" she asked.

"Volla!" And Henri snapped the fingers of both hands, snapped them three times. "Volla, mademoiselle, Marie! If it goes I can drive it."

"Can't we hire this boat?" and the resourceful Marie pointed to a trim little craft.

The overcoat and cap wheeled slowly in Marie's direction and shot forward a frosty breath.

"Nope."

"But, comrade," And Henri jerked his cap on the back of his head as he wheeled at right angles.

"It is important. Look. Here is money. I take the swift little boat. I wish out of the slip. I wish down the river. I wish across the bay. Like lightning I wish, and I overtake the yacht Hilarity. I deliver the charming maid—a little bow here—and a kiss from the finger tips to the charming mademoiselle, and immediately I wish back. Nothing is lost! All is safe!"

"Get off the dock," came the answer.

"But, monsieur."

"Hike."

"I, Henri, detest you," was the angry response.

And he followed Marie off the dock.

Up on the street stood the Villard touring car, and as Marie and Henri climbed in it a fat figure slunk out of the shadows and hung on behind, gripping a thick cigar butt between its teeth. Up and down the docks ranged Henri and Marie, but not one motorboat could they find. Wherever they stopped the thick, fat figure dropped off the car and slunk into the shadows.

Henri had another idea. He drove to a nearby saloon and procured a bottle of whisky, which he offered to the man on the dock.

"Thanks." The voice was one degree less frosty.

The neck of the bottle disappeared into the slit of the overcoat collar, and the gleaming bottle turned heavenward.

"Volla," Henri himself took a sip and stuffed the bottle in his pocket. "I shall go away, my friend, but I shall return." He hurried back to the touring car up on the street and drove away, and the thick figure slinking out of the shadows hopped on behind.

In the ivory tapestried stateroom, as the Hilarity steamed slowly across the bay, June Warner suddenly rose and rang for the stewardess. That puckered person came with alacrity, but before she went to June she stopped in the door of the crimson and gold salon and, catching the eye of Orin Cunningham, bobbed her head and smiled her ingratiating smile and jerked her thumb over her shoulder toward June's room; then she turned her pallid eyes toward Gilbert Blye for a fleeting moment and hurried away.

"Did you ring, dearie?" she whined as June opened the door.

"Yes," June studied the woman a moment speculatively. She could not confide in this creature. "You may bring me some water, please."

"Yes, dearie." The stewardess whirled and hurried to the door of the crimson and gold salon, where Tommy Thomas sat between Cunningham and Edwards, with a hand on a shoulder of each. The stewardess, with a sidelong glance at the quiet Blye in the corner, hurried over to the group on the bench.

"She wants some water," she whispered, bending over and grinning her ugly grin.

"Oh, yes." Again the grin. "Young ladies always trust me. Say, I think she wants to escape."

Blye, with a frown on his dark, handsome face, walked across and spoke to Cunningham. Orin nodded and, his eyes twinkling, went to the portable buffet, where he selected a long stemmed, gracefully shaped, gold incrustated goblet of Venetian glass. He filled it with ice and set it to one side. Then, while the others watched him, Tommy Thomas with a half sneer and Mrs. Villard with shocked concern, he took from a locked case a tiny stone bottle. Now he emptied the ice from the beautiful goblet and poured into it a few blood red drops. Mrs. Villard half rose and looked toward Gilbert Blye; then, with a catch in her breath, she sat down and was silent.

Blye went to the door as the stewardess came up the gangway and called her in with a jerk of his head. On the lips of Edwards there had come a firm set, and his heavy lidded eyes had narrowed. Without a word Cunningham handed the glass to the stewardess, but between the two there passed a look which was full of meaning. Blye, with his glowing eyes on the glass, smiled suavely.

"I brought you the water, dearie," said the stewardess, entering June's stateroom.

"Oh!" An exclamation of delight from June as her eyes widened with the beauty of the delicate Venetian goblet.

"That's something else I made for you in the pantry, dearie," explained the stewardess, in her cooing whine, and bobbed her neck. "It's a fine stimulant and soothing to the nerves."

June took the fragile glass in her hand. Its sheer beauty had won her. She inhaled daintily. The fragrance was most appealing. She looked at it again and smiled. She did feel faint and weak. She lifted the glass to her lips, and the tip of her tongue caught the delicious flavor. Suddenly, as she tilted the glass to drink, she caught the pallid eyes of the stewardess fixed eagerly upon her. The woman's mouth was half open, and she was breathing hard.

With a flash of intuition June jerked her lips from the glass and threw it, crashing and splintering, into the fireplace.

"Why, dearie," exclaimed the stewardess, and in great agitation she pushed a button at the side of the mantel.

June's eyelashes lowered for an instant and her lips set; then, quietly she went into the little blue boudoir and sat thoughtfully upon the daintily upholstered settee.

The steward came pompously in.

"Well, you've done it again, you," he growled as he surveyed the splintered fragments of the delicate Venetian glass.

"No, Percy," whined the woman and glared toward the boudoir door with her pallid eyes. She jerked her thumb in that direction, and then she winked.

"That's you," snarled Wilkins. "You always say it's a guest."

"How much?" whispered the woman in a sibilant hiss, which carried as it was intended to do.

"Them glasses is $12 apiece, and it'll be taken from your wages. That comes out of my pocket!"

June bit her lips. Twelve dollars! It was a lot of money to a girl who had found dollars coming slowly and independence hard to win, but she picked up her purse. After all, she had no proof that the woman meant anything but kindness.

"Is this breakage charged against you?" asked June.

"Why, yes, dearie." A snifle went with the whine. "How much will it cost you?"

"Twelve dollars!" Sniffle. "But it's all a part of our job, so never mind, dearie."

"I do not wish you to lose the money," and quite thoughtfully June counted $12 from her slender store. She added another for the customary tip and gave one to the man, and they thanked her most obsequiously. As June returned to the boudoir their suppressed voices broke out again.

"No," protested the woman in that whining hiss; "that's my money—the dollar's mine, anyhow."

"Nothing yours except what I give you," stated Percy Wilkins gruffly. "That's the law, and you know it. Clean up that mess, you," and he left the room.

The woman's whining mumble could be heard all the while she was cleaning up the fireplace. She was gone when June returned to the stateroom, but on the floor near the door was a yellow leather bound blank book, its side worn like glass from the constant friction of a pocket. June picked it up and opened it with idle curiosity. On the first inside page, at the top, was the big scrawled word "From." At the top of the opposite page was the word "To." The first item on the "From" page was dated four years back.

"From Sallie Fish, wedding portion—2,000 pounds."

Beneath this was the item—

"Savings, Percy Wilkins—162 pounds."

On the opposite page the first entry was:

"Booking to the States."

"Percy and Sally Wilkins, 22 pounds."

After that the entries were all in dollars. On the "From" side they were chiefly the wages of Percy Wilkins and Sally Fish Wilkins, for they had apparently gone into private service immediately. On the "To" side, which represented the expenditures, there were very few entries, but they were interesting. In the four years the woman had had four cheap dresses besides her uniforms and very scant accessories. The last entry among the receipts was June's $14 under the head of "Tips." On that page the book showed an item, "Banked to the credit of P. Wilkins, $12,000."

And it all belonged to the man, every penny. If the woman had anything it was a gift.

A startling thought came to June. Suppose she achieved her independence, suppose she earned her own money, so that she could go to Ned, asking from him nothing but love in return for her love, would he own what she had earned? If so, what would become of the principle for which she had run away? She paled at that thought, and then she laughed. She did not know the law in this matter, but she knew Ned. Dear Ned! She hunted her handkerchief in a hurry.

CHAPTER III.

THE arrival of an envelope by messenger rendered unnecessary the immediate need of police aid for the Moore family.

With fingers which trembled in spite of his habitual control, the father of June opened the telegram and read this strange message:

June and the Conspirators

I am sorry I had a certain party tied and lost in Hunter's woods. Please find him and tell him I am sorry. I am going to join our darling. I will protect her until we meet again, when all will be happy. Your faithful MARIE.

New plans were made accordingly.

On the dock against which rocked and grated the swift little motorboat Flash the lonely overcoat and cap pursued their almost imperceptible way. A touring car stopped on the street up the hill.

"It is cold, my friend, is it not?" called Henri as he rushed forward, bottle in hand. "Shall we warm ourselves—yes?"

"Yep," rolled up the somber voice, with frosty cordiality, and the neck of the bottle disappeared in the slit of the overcoat collar.

The motor tender from the Hilarity—it is not yet returned, eh?"

"Nope."

"Volla," Henri is even cheerful as he races back up the dock. "I shall return, my friend Monsieur Frappe."

As Henri jumps into his car a dim, fat figure slinks out of the shadows and hops on behind.

Left alone momentarily, June threw open the door which she had just locked and dashed back along the gangway toward the pantry. At the end of the passage she found a companionway which led her up to the deck. She rushed forward to the prow, taking in at a glance that they were far from shore and in the open water. The distant lights glowed dimly through the mist, but just ahead of her, on the port side, bore down the red and green lights of a tug.

"Ahoy!" she cried, lifting her hands to her mouth like a megaphone. "Ahoy!" she screamed.

Strong arms seized her—the heavy jawed officer she had seen as she had come on board. Two others came running up, Edwards and Cunningham. Close behind were Tommy Thomas and Mrs. Villard, the former laughing, the latter panic stricken. A handkerchief was pressed against her mouth, and the tug flashed by.

It was Edwards and Cunningham who dragged June down into the crimson and gold salon, and as June was jostled in the first thing she saw was the dark, handsome face of Gilbert Blye! He was standing at the portable buffet, quietly drinking a glass of wine!

P. Wilkins and wife came running in, and Edwards, panting, his heavy lips parted in a half snarl and half grin, released his hold on June.

"Lock her up," he ordered and joined Blye at the buffet. Blye lifted his glass, suavely smiling, as June, now unresisting, was led away.

Inside her stateroom June locked her door and at the same time heard it bolted from the outside.

On the dock the overcoat and cap watched the figure of Henri with drowsy interest, also a short, thick figure.

"Say, what do they want?" the short, thick figure asked, with stiff lips.

"Didn't I tell you before to hike?" hushed the warm steam of breath. "Get off the dock!"

"The beautiful little motorboat!" interrupted Henri, with ingratulating enthusiasm. "My friend Monsieur Flambeau, would it not be possible—"

"Nope."

"Volla," Henri was quite cheerful. "I shall return again, my friend Frappe."

Henri was just starting his car and the short, thick figure had just slunk out of the shadows to hop on behind when the overcoat and cap sat on the edge of the dock, with their feet dangling toward the water.

"Ah!" breathed Henri to the stiff figure beside him. "At last it arrives! We shall wait!"

"Is there any left?" hushed a voice.

"Pardon," abjectly apologized Henri—"a thousand pardons, Mille, Marie!" And he produced a fresh bottle.

The thick, short figure slinking back into the shadows wiped its lips with its tongue and shivered.

Dawn—sloped the chill, gray mist which lay upon the river began to clear.

"Volla," cracked the voice of Henri, but the tone was cheerful still. "He sleeps!"

It was true. The overcoat and cap, after bobbing and swaying dangerously over the water's edge for hour after hour, had at last stretched out on the dock for the slumber due to a night watchman who was thoroughly at ease and thoroughly warm.

Henri and Marie, with all the mental effect of stealthiness, sprang into the swift looking little motorboat.

A short, thick figure came painfully waddling out on the dock and shook the overcoat. The cap wobbled.

"Hey!" This was from the short, thick figure, but the aperture through which the sound came was so stiff that the result was only a wheeze.

A snore came from the overcoat.

"Hey!" A punch, a kick, but a stiff kick which had no force.

"Ugh!" The grunt was from the night watchman.

"Well, you with the distillery breath. I tried to tell you all night, didn't I? Oh, get alive! This is Bill Wolf, the private detective, talking to you."

RUSHING WORK TO SHORTEN SESSION

Committees Working Hard to Get Out All Bills; Divide Judiciary Body

MADISON, Wis., May 3.—(Special.)—The coming week will witness a cleanup on committee hearings on practically all bills in the committee of the house, where they were first introduced. The assembly judiciary committee will work in two sections to complete the hearings on all assembly bills referred to them.

The administration substitute to the Van Gorden central board of education bill will hold the center of the stage in committee hearings. A joint session of the committees on education of both houses will consider the bill on Wednesday. The new bill abandons the original idea of having paid members of the board, all the places being honorary. Control over all the state's institutions of higher learning is given to the new board, with directions to investigate conditions in the rural schools. The present system of having a representative of each congressional district is abandoned, and no restriction made as to where the members of the new board are to be appointed from. It is understood that the administration forces will stand on this bill to the finish.

The Grell bill permitting the making of skim milk cheese, which was the subject of such strong protest at the spring town meetings, comes up before the assembly committee on agriculture Wednesday. A series of insurance regulation bills are scheduled before the insurance and banking committee the same day. The judiciary committee will take up the Vint bill establishing a minimum wage for women at $10 a week.

Week Financial

NEW YORK, May 1.—The weekly actual bank statement today showed the following changes:

Surplus, decreased $854,500.

Loans, increased $30,504,000.

Reserve in own vaults, increased $7,331,000.

Reserve in federal reserve banks, decreased $106,000.

Net demand deposits, increased $27,794,000.

Net time deposits, increased, $3,604,000.

Circulation, increased $65,000.

Aggregate reserve, $567,069,000.

(Copyright, 1915, by New York Evening Post.)

NEW YORK, May 1.—The tendency of affairs on the stock exchange today was to end the week with realizing sales and a setback in prices.

At the opening activity converged again on the war order industrial, several of which were put up a point or more, and a few other stocks followed suit. But the heavy selling at these prices caused a decided though irregular reaction, in which many of the lately strongest shares went considerably below yesterday's closing.

In the closing half hour the buying movement was resumed and the recovery in prices followed. The net changes for the day were therefore extremely irregular, but advances numerous.

Remember, girls, the onion should be omitted from love's menu.

and heifers, $3.00 to $8.50; stockers and feeders, inactive; Texans, $5.60 to $6.80; calves, $6.00 to $9.00.

Sheep — Receipts 500; market steady, 10 to 15c higher; native, $7.50 to $8.35; western, $7.60 to $8.55; lambs, $8.40 to $10.60; western, $8.50 to $10.80.

TURKS CLAIM TO HAVE HURT FOUR ALLIED WARSHIPS

One British Destroyer Reported Sunk and Three Battleships Damaged

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 3.—Via Wireless.—The Turkish official statement issued today, reviewing the operations in the Dardanelles, claims the land batteries have sunk a British destroyer, badly damaged the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc and the British battleships Triumph, Majestic and Vengeance. It also declares one British transport has been driven on shore and several sailboats loaded with soldiers sunk. The statement is as follows:

"Wednesday the fire from the forts damaged the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, setting it on fire and forcing it to retire.

"An English destroyer was sunk
entering the Straits.

"Sixteen of the enemy's warships and many torpedo craft threw thousands of shells on the Turkish batteries and land positions.

"Off Seddel Bahr, two of the enemy's transports were hit; one was forced ashore and several sailboats loaded with soldiers were sunk.

"The English battleships Majestic, Triumph and Vengeance have been damaged by our fire and forced to retire."

Transport Sunk
LONDON, May 3.—The Queen
Elizabeth sank a large transport during the Dardanelles bombardment last Tuesday, according to official dispatches to the Admiralty tonight.
The dispatches did not state the number of men lost when the transport went down.

BANDITS ROB CAR

SHAMOKIN, Pa., May 3.—Bandits robbed a car on the Shamokin and Gilberton railway at the top of the mountain, taking a satchel containing $4,500 sent by the Eagle Silk mill to a branch.

Most city folks admire country relatives for visiting purposes only.

LONDON'S CLAIMS NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

Heavy Fighting with Turks
in Progress but Outcome Is in Grave
Doubt

LONDON, May 3.—Further fighting of the heaviest character was reported today to be in progress on the Gallipoli peninsula, where the British forces are making every effort to cut off the Turks from the mainland. Special dispatches from Athens say that in a series of night assaults on the Turkish positions the enemy was driven further inland. The entire allied fleet is co-operating with the land parties, shelling the Turkish forts from inside of the Dardanelles, from the gulf of Saros and from the Aegean sea. Meanwhile the French are advancing on the Asiatic side.

The admiralty has no confirmation of the Turkish claims that several of the allied warships have been disabled by the bombardment of the land forts. It is stated, however, that it would not be surprising if some of the warships had been hit as they are steaming well within range of the forts in order that they can bring their secondary batteries into play.
However, inasmuch as no reports have been received from the Admiralty commanding it is thought the Turkish claims are exaggerated.

Reports that the British have captured the town of Gallipoli still lack confirmation. It is stated at the war office, however, that latest reports indicated the British force which landed south of Jemkei had advanced inland and was engaged by the main body of the Turks. It is the intention of the campaign to isolate the forts and then to reduce them, if possible, by a cross fire from the fleet with the Queen Elizabeth and other gun ships operating from the gulf of Saros and the other warships operating from inside the Straits.

The Turkish positions at Nagara were heavily bombarded last night.

BAPTIST LADIES ENTERTAIN

The Ladies' Industrial society of the First Baptist church was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mesdames Sam Johnson, Mary Dunn and Thompson at the home of Mrs. Johnson. The mission study was in charge of Mrs. J. C. Card. The Misses Margaret Skaar, Hazel Bronson and Master Paul Johnson rendered musical numbers, which were much appreciated.
